Kastle Systems Named to the 2017 Corporate Philanthropy List by the Washington Business Journal

Recognized as one of Greater Washington's leading corporate supporters of area non-profits

FALLS CHURCH, VA (November 20, 2017) - Emphasizing its commitment to the community, managed security leader Kastle Systems announced today that it has been recognized as one of Greater Washington's leading corporate supporters of area non-profits. As a company that places a premium on service, Kastle looks for opportunities to give back to the community. Kastle and its employees support a number of worthy causes such as So Others Might Eat (SOME) food kitchen, Juvenile Diabetes Research Foundation, Toys for Tots, Higher Achievement, The Children's Inn, Wounded Warriors and the annual MS Walk to fight Multiple Sclerosis. In 2014, Kastle launched Capital Shield, a public-private partnership that unites the Washington, D.C. Metropolitan Police Department (MPD) with commercial property owners, businesses and institutions around a common goal - protecting Washington, D.C. Through this program, participants can help enhance public safety by providing the MPD with direct access to their security cameras, enabling first responders to quickly gain the situational awareness required to assist citizens during emergency situations.

"As a company that was founded in Washington, D.C. more than 45 years ago, it's important for us to give back to the local community who has supported us throughout our journey," said Kastle's Chairman and Washington, D.C. native, Mark Ein. "We want our employees, customers, and community to know that we care about their well-being and about helping those less fortunate. It's part of our culture at Kastle."

To further their charitable initiatives in 2018, Kastle has challenged its employees to increase their volunteer hours and enabled them to do so during paid working hours. Kastle will continue to donate funds to charitable local organizations and facilitate city-wide participation in the Capital Shield public safety initiative.
